

Giuseppe Colnecio, of No. 405 East One Hundred and Twelfth street, was locked up in the Detective Bureau at Police Headquarters late yesterday afternoon, charged with having in his possession a forged nat-piece a figure of "Justice," while the forgery carries a small fleur de lis.

There is no similarity between the genuine signature of Clerk Thomas Boese, of the court, and the forgery. The text of the certificate is in a different hand from the signature, showing that the man must have been concerned in the fraud.

How Colnecchio Was Caught.

Colnecchio went to Clerk Cringle yesterday to get an application blank for work in the sweeping brigade. Italians always carry their voting papers with them, the same as they had to carry their passports formerly, showing that they had the right names on the books, and so Cringle's first request was for a citizenship certificate.

He recognized it at once as one of the famous "fakes" and immediately sent to Deputy County Clerk Seely, and found no such name on the books of the old Superior Court. He then came to get the forgery.

Cringle. Then he taxed Colnecchio with the fraud, and the Italian, greatly disturbed, admitted he had paid $10 for the papers, and immediately sent the forgery and the forged certificate to Police Headquarters, with a letter giving the facts.

The bogus certificate is dated October 8, 1906, and is in the handwriting of its name. The paper is clean, but if of that age would be likely to show hard usage, if carried continuously in a laboring man's pocket.

Colnecchio's name on the registration books of the Thirty-third District appears as Colnecchio, which would appear to be a clerical error, but the name is spelled as transcribed from the bogus certificate.

Colnecchio told both Cringle and Detective Petrosino that he had paid $10 for the forged certificates, but that, so far as he knew, the holders got them innocently. He said the man who sold them demanded the same amount for the doctor who was to certify that the applicant was able to do the work demanded by the Street Cleaning Department, and that he had sent the certificates more to get jobs in that depart-drawn by six horses, the other by four. They were decorated with yellow buds and yellow chrysanthemums, and looked to be fresh from the winning of a football championship by Princeton. Major McKinley was in the lead.

On Saturday the candidate will be visited by another delegation of non-voters, the schoolboys of Canton, who have a reputation for being the best in the state. Their speakers will be taken to the house in a pony carriage, escorted by a troop of boys on ponies. The school girls are also planning to visit.

Canton Election Figures.

Talk about Major McKinley's not carrying his election district, ward, city and county may be set down as nonsense. There are many fine silver men in Canton, but not a majority.

Dr. Barber, of the Citizens' Reception Committee, has received the following estimated pluralities for Major McKinley: Election district 75; ward, 200; city, 1,000; county, 3,500. Local politicians say county totals are not correct.

Visitors from various parts of the State put the Republican majority at not less than 100,000. Former State Librarian Charles H. Johnson, who has been here, has received estimates by counties from correspondents all over the State. They differ widely in many instances from those of the census takers, but they favor for up a plurality of 80,800 for McKinley.

It was reported to-day that Chauncey M. Depue would visit Canton to-morrow. The report came from a speaker to the voters, but no verification of it could be obtained.

McKinley to Railroad Men.

The first delegation to-day was a large body of railroad men of the Kanawha & Michigan system. It started from Charleston, W. Va., reaching Canton at 7 a. m. Mr. Depue was the first to speak to them.

battles of the State and assisting in a glorious triumph in November. I welcome my friends from neighboring counties. You are all here because there is a common sentiment in your hearts, a common desire for the maintenance of sound money, for public honor and supremacy of law, and a policy that will protect the rights of the people.

The Women, God Bless 'Em!
Major McKinley then greeted a body of sixty women from a large Akron manufacturing establishment. There was no address, but each shook hands with the

After this was over, a large delegation from Ashland County filed into the yard and was introduced by T. C. Carr. Major McKinley was especially well received. He believed all had made up their minds how to vote, and that they intended to vote on the side they believed would bring to the nation the greatest honor and prosperity.

A. G. Thompson introduced a delegation from Fulton and Williams counties, Ohio, who, he said, had come from the western and eastern Indiana, which combined at the depots and marched to the McKinley home. Major McKinley told them that their call was most gratifying. He said he believed all the people were ready to vote; that there had been no time since the war when the people were so impatient to vote, and that in Indiana the people were of the character of their votes as they were this year.

STUDENTS CANNOT VOTE.

Many Registered Illegally Who Attend the General Theological Seminary on Ninth Avenue.

The attention of John C. Sheehan was called yesterday to the fact that a major portion of the students attending the General Theological Seminary of the Protestant Episcopal Church, on Ninth avenue, between Twelfth and Twenty-first streets, had registered, in violation of the Election laws. There are about 350 students in the seminary, most of whom are said to be Republicans. These students have, in previous years, caused considerable trouble, and only many of the students this year engaged in the neighborhood of the college at least thirty days prior to the election. They applied to the inspectors and were registered from these rooms. Mr. Sheehan immediately started an investigation and was able to locate the rooms where the students were from voting. Last year Justice Barrett had their names stricken from the rolls.

"There is no desire," said Mr. Sheehan, "to prevent any man who has the right from voting. On the contrary, Tammany Hall will protect him in his rights. But every person attending this or any other meeting called for the purpose of electing registered and who attempts to vote will be arrested and prosecuted."

Washington, Oct. 29.—Secretary Edgerton, of the National Populist Committee, to-day, replying to Mr. Watson's statement that the former could explain the delay in the delivery to Senator Butler of the missing letter of acceptance of Mr. Watson, said: "The only reply I have to that statement is to oppose to it the testimony of the Senate postmaster, and to add that, neither the personal nor the official mail of Senator Butler is delivered to him. I never saw Mr. Watson's letter until about morning last, when Senator Butler called."

COME FROM OUT OF TOWN

Many Factories Will Shut Down That Their Men May March Here To-Morrow.

Although it has been announced, that none but New York men would be allowed to participate in the Republican parade to-morrow, many are preparing to come to New York from surrounding towns, and they expect to be in line. Communists engaged in business in New York will march with their fellow employees who are voters here.

Through the northern part of the State of New Jersey, within a hundred miles of

New York, manufacturers' establishments were closed on Saturday in order that their employees may have no excuse for not participating in the parade. Those marching will not, it is stated, lose their day's pay. This does not apply to women and girls.

Cheap-fare excursions will come to New York and in many instances employers will pay the fares of their men.

IF BRYAN WINS THE FIGHT. Many women went to hear Miss H. Y. Howell at the Commercial Travellers' Sound Motion Picture Theatre last night. They were all there at seven o'clock yesterday noon, at Broadway and Fifth street. She told of her political work in the east side tenements, E. K. BY THE COURT, Thomas Rose Clerk.

registration paper and with having registered on it in the Sixteenth Election District of the Thirty-third Assembly District. He had confessed to several persons that he had paid $10 for the forged paper, but either couldn't or wouldn't tell from whom he bought it. To Registration Clerk E. P. Cringle, of the Street-Cleaning Department, he said the man had sold several hundred similar naturalization papers at $10 each and had then walked back to Italy.

To Detective Petrosino, who made the arrest, the Italian said he didn't know the name of the man or where he was. He admitted paying the money, and claimed he did so innocently, believing it was a fee demanded for hurrying matters. He said he was anxious to get work in the Street-Cleaning Department, and knew he must be a citizen in order to do so.

Chief of Police Conlin, Captain O'Brien, of the Detective Bureau, and Acting Inspectors Brooks and Thompson worked on the case yesterday, and if they can get the names of the dealers in forged certificates from Connecko a gigantic fraud may be brought home to Italian padrones in the city.

Many Forgeries Have Been Found.

These forged certificates have been drifting into the Street-Cleaning Department for some time, so that Cringle has come to know them on sight. In each case he has sent them to General Rodenbaugh, of the Bureau of Elections, and the bearers were taken by Chief of Police Conlin to Grand Jury, but in no case could they be brought home to the holder.

The man who used the certificate probably made himself out to be a citizen, does not compel him to show his nationality, and is no telling whether he has been

LONDON TIMES'S VIEWS.

The Eastern States, it Says Editorially, Should Not Be Too Sure of McKinley's Election.

London, Oct. 20.—The Times, in an article on the Presidential campaign in the United States, says:

"If Senator Jones, Mr. Daniel J. Campau, respectively chairmen of the Democratic National Committee and the National Campaign Committee, and other Democratic magnates are correct in their figures, it is conclusive that Mr. Bryan will be elected. Mr. Campau estimates that 292 Bryan electoral votes will be cast by thirty-three States, including Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Iowa and Minnesota, all of which the Republicans think are safe.

"If, therefore, the State of New York persists in the belief that McKinley will be elected it is not for the want of warning. If the East is blind it is wilfully so."

A shrewd observer in Chicago thinks that the prevalent Bryan demonstrations mean Bryan votes."

PORTER'S STRENGTH GIVES OUT

Democratic Candidate for Governor Cancels His Campaign Engagements.

Watertown, Oct. 20.—Wilbur F. Porter, Democratic candidate for Governor, is at his home, his nervous system broken down from his speech-making tour.

He has cancelled all his engagements for the remainder of the campaign.

Republicans Cheer for Bryan.

The Westchester County Democrats held the largest and most demonstrative mass meeting at the Madison Avenue Opera House, at Mount Vernon, last evening of this campaign. Bryan Sewall clubb came from several towns. J. A. Smith of Mount Vernon, presided. The House was packed. In the audience were a Republican who joined in the applause of E. Fitzgerald, State Senator from New York, Dr. Laurence Nicoll, local candidate for Congress in the district, were among the speakers. It was a powerful speech. Prior to the speech there was a big torchlight then they see feeble veterans in bedecked carriages, hard-fisted farmers from the rich agricultural districts, and business men with silk hats. They are happiest when they see a well drilled, uniformed campaign club—and they saw one to-day.

This was the Charles L. Kunz Club of Columbus, named for the chairman of the State Republican Committee. It came in gorgeous uniforms of white, blue and gold with six axe-bearing pioneers, in white beavers, and the Seventeen Infantry Band at its head. The men carried lances with yellow pennons inscribed "Kurtz," and the officers wore swords.

Many members of the club belong to the Fourteenth Regiment, National Guard, and the way they executed four right and column left drew applause from enthusiastic spectators. The majority of the delegates from the State arrived at the McKinley house at the same hour, and the Major addressed an assemblage of 2,000 persons from the little stand in his front yard.

Other delegations to-day were from Hancock and Seneca counties; from Akron and from Northern Indiana. The last named was composed mostly of bronzed farmers, and their vigorous cheers for Major McKinley proved they believed in having their wheat and their money of the same color. A small delegation of Pittsburgh business men came in the morning, but on the whole Major McKinley had a comparatively easy day. A proposed visit of the Original McKinley Club of Cleveland was postponed until to-morrow, and at 4:30 p. m. the Major had opportunity to refresh himself by a drive.

Doesn't Minee Matters Now.

The candidate's manner while speaking is admirable. Whatever may have been his attitude on the money question in the past, he does not minee matters now. He has the grace to chuckle, and the tact, which latter he has, that his eyes blaze and his voice rings with a tremor of emotion. He is either allied with the plutocrats, or with the subjects, or he is the most accomplished actor now before the public.

To one delegation to-day he did not make a speech, but was a rather striking and a blooming feminine beauty from Akron. The young women arrived in two brakes, one
